Shepherding God’s People During COVID-19:
Pastoral Care and Counseling,
Disciple making and Spiritual Formation

During the pandemic, Christians face challenges of all kinds just like other people: health risks and uncertainties, financial difficulties and family conflicts, even faith questions and crisis. The good news is Christians can draw upon spiritual resources that can turn these crises into opportunities of growth. How can pastors strategically help their flock grow in this season through the ministries of pastoral care and counseling, disciple making and spiritual formation? Come and explore the answers to this question with Dr. Tan.

Speaker: Rev. Dr. Siang-Yang Tan

Dr. Tan is the Senior Pastor of First Evangelical Church of Glendale, as well as a Psychology Professor at Fuller Theological Seminary. He has decades of pastoral and teaching experience, equipping the lay and seminarians. He has also published many books, the newest being: Shepherding God’s People: A Guide to Faithful and Fruitful Pastoral Ministry.

*The workshop will be conducted in English, with Chinese interpretation.
